All the personal information you provide us with are the result of a free choice on your part; we do not have any unlawful means of obtaining this information without your consent. The information you provide us with by sending us an email or by filling in the registration form is used only to reply to your questions or meet your requests; only if you give us your express consent can our organisation use your personal data for purposes such as sending you promotional and commercial information or information regarding offers of new products or services; finally, again only if you give us your specific consent may your personal data be placed at the disposal of our commercial partners for them to convey useful information or send promotional material of your interest.

During their normal operation, the computer systems and software procedures for the functioning of this website obtain some personal data whose transmission is implicit in the use of internet communication protocols. These data do not constitute information that is collected to be associated with specific interests, but by their very nature they could enable users to be identified through processing and association with data held by third parties. This category of data includes IP addresses or the domain names of the computers employed by the users that connect to the site, the addresses in URI (Uniform Resource Identifier) notation of the resources required, the time of the request, the method used in submitting the request to the server, the size of the file obtained in response, the numerical code indicating the status of the response from the server (successful, error, etc.) and other parameters regarding the user's operating system and IT environment. These data are only used to gain anonymous statistical information on the use of the site and to ensure that it is working correctly and are erased immediately after being processed. They could be used in order to establish liability in the event of any computer crimes against the website.
